Dear Priti and Kuku,

'Sunshine' – for your organisation it is much more than just a name but an expression of the overarching goal of your activities which is to bring sunshine to those who are in greatest need: children from underprivileged social backgrounds. That was also the overwhelming impression my wife Eliese experienced during her recent visit to the children from the Sunshine Project.

What started with a little girl from a poor neighbourhood has gathered enormous momentum over the years. Today, 178 children are being received at the Sunshine Project premises every day. Here they receive the warmth of family life and are provided with support in so many ways - be it school education, homework tutoring, food, medical care and a shoulder to lean on when needed.

Your selfless dedication, Kuku and Priti, is very well-known in the German community. That is why German companies, organisations and my Embassy have been contributing to your important work for so many years, knowing that their donations are being used in a transparent and effective manner.

I would therefore like to encourage everybody to support this good cause, as the Sunshine Project truly lightens up the life of these children.

Yours sincerely,

Michael Steiner
